Family rooms take the idea of “rooming-in” to the next level by welcoming both parents. Whenever possible, older siblings can also share these first special moments with the new baby. Studies on rooming-in show it has a positive impact on bonding and breastfeeding.

The value of the postnatal period is widely recognized. During this phase, parents' well-being, existing skills, and resources are supported, helping to strengthen family bonds. Recommended action: Expand the availability of family rooms.

German Federal Ministry of Health (2017): "National Health Objective – Health Around Birth"

Standard family rooms feature a double bed, a cozy chair for nursing, a table, a changing station, and plenty of storage space. They feel more like a hotel room than a hospital room.

"I'm there for people during their most significant moments. My days are filled with tears of joy, as well as pain and blood. I help care for newborns throughout the postpartum period. Hospital beds and modern bassinets support me in my work every single day."

Jovie

Happy first days for mother and child

Jovie helps foster early bonding right from birth. Child development experts believe that both mother and baby are especially sensitive during this time, and close physical contact can make a lasting difference in their relationship. The Jovie bassinet opens from either side, depending on where it's placed, creating a direct connection to the mother's mattress base.

▲ To lower the protective side panel, simply unlock it with a gentle twist of the wrist.

Key benefits at a glance

- Maximum safety with certified compliance to EN 50637
- Ergonomic working height thanks to wide adjustment range
- Reverse Trendelenburg tilt available—ideal for babies with reflux
- Easy to clean and maintain
- Quick side panel replacement
- The crib slides right up to the mother's bed for open access to baby

Benefits for Moms

▲ The Jovie gives newborns the comfort of their own bed, while still letting them stay close and connected to mom anytime, day or night.

▲ Jovie can be adjusted to match any bed height with precision—always staying level with the mother's mattress.

Benefits for your nursing staff: Easy to use

▲ The nursing staff can adjust the crib's height using the lever on the push bar. The quiet gas springs offer smooth support without disturbing your sleeping baby.

▲ Thanks to its outstanding maneuverability, caregivers can move Jovie quickly and effortlessly to wherever it's needed.

▲ If your newborn experiences reflux in the first few days, gently angling the crib up to about 13° in reverse Trendelenburg can bring quick relief. The transition is smooth and quiet thanks to the gas springs.

▲ Quiet journeys for baby: Modern dual soft-rolling wheels cushion your little one from bumps and shakes. Four independent brakes ensure Jovie stays securely in place.

▲ Keeping infants safe and hygienic is a top priority. Jovie's low-profile, flat design makes manual cleaning remarkably easy.

Gently elevating your baby's upper body—like in a reverse Trendelenburg position—after feeding may help reduce reflux.

"I feel a wave of nostalgia every time I think back to that magical moment with my child. Those first days felt like something right out of a fairy tale. I truly enjoyed my time at the hospital and made the most of the modern beds with their electric adjustments."

OUR OFFER

- Height-adjustable crib to fit the mother's needs
- Safe, certified crib tested for harmful substances to protect your newborn
- Crib can be placed right next to the mother's bed
- Baby can be changed right in the crib

The perfect environment for close bonding between mom and baby

A newborn brings parents such joy, it's hard to take their eyes off their baby. Even when their little one is sleeping, Jovie's transparent side panels let them keep a constant watch. Moms can always look after their child from their own bed and build a strong bond.

If mom wants to hold her baby while standing or lying down, the adjustable crib height makes it effortless. Especially after a C-section, heavy lifting should be avoided. Jovie helps moms care for their baby while keeping their back comfortable.

- ▲ The family can spend those precious first hours together in the family room. From her bed, mom can easily reach out to touch, nurse, or hold her baby.

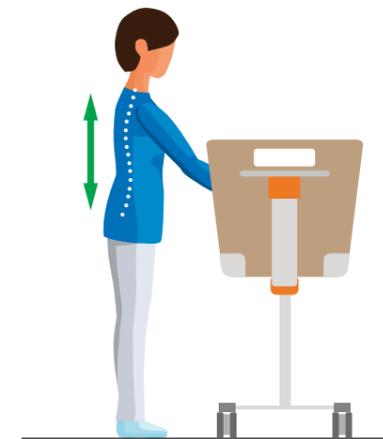

"Babies aren't colorblind! Not even right after birth," explains Dr. Anna Franklin, a scientist at Surrey Baby Lab, who led a color study with over 250 newborns. The results were surprising: even at birth, babies already have a favorite color—red! Researchers at the Baby Lab believe babies are familiar with this color from before birth and are especially fond of it. During pregnancy, light passes through the mother's blood-rich abdominal wall much like it would through a deep red curtain.

- ▲ Red is one of the color options for the Jovie. Bright colors help infants from birth to four months develop their eyesight. Babies are especially drawn to shades of red.
- ◀ If there isn't a changing table in the patient's room, mom can easily change her baby's diaper right in the Jovie.

▲ The wide height adjustment range makes it easier to provide ergonomic care for your baby.

▲ Traditional cribs don't offer ergonomic adjustments lack ergonomic height adjustment, which can strain the backs of parents and caregivers.

Standards-compliant bed for maternity use

Upholding safety standards and ensuring the highest level of protection for our patients is always the top priority for Eleven0Nine82 Energy Solutions. This is especially critical for infants, children, and teens who need special care and support in the hospital. Our pediatric beds have been carefully selected, tested, and certified according to the EN 50637 standard for children's medical beds.

While older pediatric beds may be used for an extended period, this is not guaranteed. The new standards introduce much stricter requirements for certain design elements, so it is recommended to incorporate these changes into any future planning.

Key highlights of the new standard include:

- Children's beds require uniform, enclosed side protection panels; bars are not permitted
- Closed sides must provide a minimum protection height of 27.5 cm
- No accessible holes with a depth ≥ 10 mm and diameter from 5 to 12 mm
- Spaces between moving parts near the mattress base must always be less than 3 mm or greater than 25 mm
- The gap between the side safety panel and the mattress must be sized to prevent limbs from getting stuck
- Edges must not pose an injury risk, and sharp corners should be avoided
- Protection panels, side elements, as well as the head and footboards, are tested for impact resistance

Additional pediatric beds meeting safety standards

Cuddle

Our Cuddle children's bed creates a cozy, cheerful atmosphere. Designed for children up to 125 cm tall, its bright colors and playful style make it look like a fairytale castle that naturally draws every child in. The tall safety sides, made from clear polycarbonate or aluminum bars, provide secure protection and keep energetic little ones from climbing over the smooth surfaces.

Seta pro junior

The Seta pro junior is a comforting space that feels like home and encourages a speedy recovery. With a mattress base of 78 x 180 cm, it offers plenty of room for both children and teens. The junior version features full motorized adjustments, delivering the same comfort level as the adult Seta pro. For patients with limited mobility, the standard full-length safety side helps prevent falls and can be easily operated by caregivers.
